RISE IN PRICE OF HOGS AIDS FARMERS

CHICAGO, March 1.—(U. N. S.)—When top hogs reached $10 per hundred pounds on the Chicago market recently an unprecedented rise of nearly $3 in a month and a half at the height of the packing season was recorded. Packers stated that at the average price paid hogs were bringing from 80 cents to $1 per bushel for the corn consumed. That established the widest price known in the difference of corn sold as grain and corn fed into pork.

"The record set is a signal victory for the open competitive market," said S. B. Stafford, president of the Chicago Livestock Exchange. "In spite of a determined fight on the part of the big packers to hold values down, prices have rapidly advanced through the active competitive bidding of the numerous small packing plants scattered all over the country. "Only a short time ago a Milwaukee packing house freely prophesied that hogs would sell on a parity with corn prices and cost the packers around $5. But the competition of the smaller houses on the open market upset this programme. During December 51 per cent of the hogs received at Chicago were bought by out shippers and in January they took 29 per cent. This competition is without precedent and indicates to what extent the smaller houses have at least temporarily wrested the control of the market from the big packers.

"In an attempt to avoid this competition the big packers are buying hogs at country points and keeping them from entering the market, where they would be subject to bids from all classes of buyers. If the big packers were obliged to buy all their supplies on the open market they would lose the advantage they now enjoy."

O. A. C. TO BE HOST TO HOMEMAKERS

CORVALLIS, March 1.—The leading elements of the improved home-household administration, the child, food, clothing, entertainment, and equipment—will be featured in lecture, exhibit, and demonstration at the homemakers conference, O. A. C. March 20-25. If the women students find that any important factors are in danger of being overlooked they may remedy the matter themselves through questions, as the question box will be one of the means of exchanging ideas. Among the noted celebrities of Oregon contributing to the work will be Mrs. Ida B. Callahan, president Oregon Federated Women's club. Mrs. J. F. Hill, president Oregon

Parent-Teacher association, Miss Caroline Marvin, state librarian, and Ann Shannon Monroe, author. Dr. W. J. Kerr, president of the college, will give the address of welcome, and a large staff of specialists in homemaking and related lines will assist in the instructional work.

A THREE-MAN REPUBLIC. BERLIN, March 1.—(U. P.)—A three-man world republic, with regular money, postage stamps, constitution and titles—everything, in fact, but a home—is being operated from a suburban villa here. Its president, Prof. Carlos Freytag, "Prince of Aran"—the republic's title—and, he claims, representative of the Oriental University at Washington, declares he has so far been recognized by Luxembourg, the Straits Settlement, and the Fiji Islands. Assisted by his brother, the "Count de Foix," and "Professor Kurt Martin, Baronet of Aran," he offers to sell university degrees and titles at anything the applicant can pay.

WHISKY TIED TO BUOYS AND THEN SUBMERGED

SAN FRANCISCO, March 1.—(U. P.)—By the way, where did that drink of whiskey you had last night come from?

Rather an indiscreet question, to be sure, but federal officials can answer it in a general way.

Assuming that it was whisky—which it probably wasn't—it may have reached "Bill," your favorite bootlegger, in sundry fashions.

Perhaps it has been smuggled out of a bonded government warehouse by one means or another. Perhaps it's originally claimed as its papa a doctor's prescription.

Then, again, it may be whisky which is being made on the quiet by former distillers. In such case it isn't old. It's new, but it's whisky. A number of former distillery employees, federal officials state, are now retiring to the hills, where they use their knowledge in a quiet way to make genuine whisky.

But most likely, if it is whisky, it once clung perilously to a life buoy.

The most prevalent way of smuggling liquor at present, according to officials, is for some member of Vancouver's large and prosperous "whisky fleet" (which carries so much whisky ostensibly to Esquema, Lower California) to ship the liquor at the Canadian port, and proceed down the coast of the three Pacific states. The destination depends upon where the cargo is assigned.

If it is coming to San Francisco, the Vancouver boat, keeping well beyond the three mile limit, ties the whisky cases to buoys, and submerges them at a prearranged point.

Thereupon an apparently harmless pleasure yacht cruises out beyond the Golden Gate, hauls in the buoys, takes the cargo aboard and comes back with flying colors. Or perhaps the boat is a fisherman's tub, whose nets haul far more profitable catches in than ever in the pre-Prohibition days.

For this reason federal officials are keeping a close watch on the coast line, and checking "departures" from Vancouver carefully. Unusually, they say, the whisky is contracted for beforehand, and whiskied into a truck and delivered to the ultimate consumer or dispenser within a few hours.

100 CONVENTIONS FOR GOLDEN GATE CITY

SAN FRANCISCO, March 1.—(U. P.)—Close to 100 conventions are slated to be held in San Francisco during the coming year, more than Los Angeles, San Diego, Oakland, Portland, and Seattle combined will have, according to Robert L. Webb, secretary of the San Francisco Convention and Tourist League.

It is estimated that the conventions will leave a total of $25,000,000 in "new cash" in the city.

"In addition," says Webb, "a number of conventions are to be held in the various bay cities, which will also benefit this region greatly."

The greatest convention of the year will be the Shriners, in June. The total of nearly 100 conventions does not include the conventions already held.

This will be San Francisco's biggest convention year since 1915—the year of the fair. Next year, according to Webb, promises to outstrip this, especially as one of the national political conventions is almost certain to be held here.

No convention is too small, and none too big to escape the attention of the Tourist League. Webb personally has traveled thousands of miles "hiring up" conventions. Sometimes years have been spent, as in the case of the Shriners. San Francisco has been working to get the Shriners' convention since 1911, Webb said.

According to present estimates, during every week of this year some convention will be in session in San Francisco.

Sailors Rescued From Stranded Ship by Breeches Buoy

The cameraman was right on the job when the crew of the Thistlemore was rescued after the British freighter went aground off Cape Horn and was threatened with destruction. Coast guards shot a line across the bow of the boat and the breeches buoy was rigged up. The crew rode to shore, one by one, by means of the trolley-like arrangement shown above.
